

SUMMER ART CAMP

Our camp schedule is fluid, and we will be taking cues from our campers and our farm to help create a fun and interesting experience for all. A day at camp may follow the below schedule (but please remember if we find an egg hatching, a pig wallowing, or become engrossed in a collage we may change our plans for the day).

9-9:30 am: Campers arrive and enjoy a short activity (painting a garden rock or making clay beads for future use. They may even start the day with collecting eggs or feeding our pigs.)

9:30-10:30 am: We will begin (or continue a previous day's) art lesson/ activity. This may be painting on canvases or working with paper mache for a sculpture of a bug. Sometimes this will involve some " farm research" like a nature hike.

10:30-11 Clean up our art supplies and enjoy a snack (snack will likely be a mix of things from our farm - hard boiled eggs, fruit, a veggie or two (and let's be honest what kid doesn't love a few crackers).

11-12pm: Outside activity. I am excited to share our 40 acres of farm space. I'll be taking suggestions from our campers as well as having some pre-planned games or activities. We have a great fishing pond that can also be fun with our mini sized (non flipping) kayaks. We also have a fun creek that is great for stomping in and looking for crawdads. I love our beaver den and all the beaver clues those animals love to leave behind. Of course we can easily grab some water hoses or chalk for a more at home feel...this time is really meant to be active and explore our interests!

12-1pm: We will work on either the same art project from earlier in the day or we will begin a new one. I know the campers are going to be thrilled to show off their creativity, and we want to provide the opportunity to work with several mediums to create a few great pieces that can be cherished.

1-1:30pm: Clean up a few materials and enjoy some activities in our drop off/ pick up area or in the art studio.

If participating in the after care program we will have an additional snack and will likely trade off between in studio and outdoor activities.
